

TOOELE MORTGAGE

I am a proud Navy mom; our active military members work around the clock sacrificing time away from family. The wear and tear on their bodies and minds while surviving active duty can take a toll. If they become disabled due to serving our country and get a tax exemption, they should be able to apply for the exemption before they own the home. This would lower their monthly payment so it can be more affordable. With higher prices and property taxes on homes throughout the country, this should help them qualify better if their debt to income is higher due to property taxes. Homeownership is needed for our military members, anything we can do to help would be greatly appreciated. I have been a licensed loan officer for 23 years helping Veterans and this would be so helpful and deserving for them.

Sincerely,

Nicole Walters
