

23 Officers in 738 Wacs to England as First All-Woman Army Postal Unit

HEADQUARTERS, UNITED KINGDOM BASE, England—The arrival in England, February 12, of 738 colored members of the Women's Army Corps, the first such contingent to be assigned to an overseas station, was announced last week by the War Department.

Twenty-three colored officers accompanied them.

These Wacs, who augment the more than 300,000 male members of their race in the European theatre of operations, make up the first U.S. Army postal unit composed entirely of women to be sent overseas.

New York, with 82, has the largest representation among the group. Pennsylvania came next with 78; then Illinois, 56; Ohio, 42, and Virginia, 41.

Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commanding general of the communications zone, ETO, and supply officer to General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, greeted them at their debarkation point near Birmingham, where a Scott band baggiped them to their train.

Greeted by Gen. Davis

Representing nearly every State in the Union, with 85 per cent of them either ex-school teachers or holders of college degrees, the women also were welcomed by Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, Inspector General's Office, ETO, and by Chaplain (Capt.) Beverly Ward, Harrisburg, Pa.

An American band serenaded them as they marched into waiting buses at their destination.

The youngest member of the group is Pvt. Hilda E. Wood, 5430 Summer Street, Philadelphia, who observed her twenty-first birthday on February 15, while Sgt. Erma L. Fifer, 51, Chicago, is the oldest. The grandmother claims she got in "just under the wire."

Mother of 2 GI's

With two sons serving in the Pacific theatre, Pvt. Mary Fairweather, New York City, a widow of 48, joined the colors, she says, to make it a solid family affair. Her son, Elwyn, 26, a lieutenant in the army, was headed for the South Pacific when she left the U.S. for England. Another son, Arthur, has served with the Marines at a Pacific post for two years.

Reached N.Y. January 29

The unit, known as RT-510-c, arrived at Camp Shanks, N.Y., January 29, 1945 under the temporary command of Capt. Mildred E. Carter, 522 Columbus Avenue, Boston.

The actual commanding officer of the organization, Maj. Charity Adams, Columbia, S.C., preceded her charges overseas, accompanied by Capt. Abbey Campbell, Tuskegee, Ala., executive officer of the unit.

Convoy officers for the shipment were Maj. Virginia G. Hurley, office of the Chief of Staff, Washington; Capt. Ellen B. Hayes, East Orange, N.J., and Capt. Mary E. Miller, Lincoln, Neb.

Other officers accompanying the shipment were First Lts. Corrie S. Sherard, Atlanta, Ga.; Ella B. Tatum, El Dorado, Ark., and Vashti B. Tonkins, Ashland, Va., and 2nd Lts. Caloni V. Powell, Houston, Tex., and Mercedes A. Jordan, Long Branch, N.J.
